

Topography S 101595-0057

Topography S is a part of the Lines of Illusion concept created by leading architects. Topography can be used as a soft, dynamic element in any environment. The inspiration for the pattern comes from topographic maps where level differences in the terrain are depicted using level curves. The curves have been re-interpreted into undulating diagonals with a thin contour line in a contrasting colour, creating a lively expression with a subtle 3D effect.

We thought you'd like...

- the possibility to combine with the large scale pattern Topography L in co-ordinated colours
- the lively organic design expression and graphic simplicity of the design
- the versatile colour range carefully developed to compliment architectural materials
